Dual Study Program for Industrial Engineering

Technology and economy influence the success of our company. Where they intersect, we need employees who excel in both: You will have to interpret complex technical as well as commercial contexts.

A dual study program in industrial engineering offers you the ideal combination. You will deal with technical subjects and business administration in theory and practice. Take the opportunity! Shape exciting projects in the environment of a globally operating mechanical engineering company!

You can expect an exciting job in a motivated and friendly team. The hierarchies are flat and the communication channels short. And there are many opportunities to contribute your own ideas.
